Queenslander Natalie Smith was a theatre nurse and keen sportswoman when she sustained a spinal injury following a hiking accident in 2009.

She found her new sporting passion when she signed up for a 'come and try shooting day' hosted by Sporting Wheelies and Disabled Association, and is now one of the world's best para-shooters with a Paralympic bronze medal and her sights set on gold at the Rio Paralympics. She has also achieved her dream of becoming a mother, giving birth to her "lucky charm" Daniel in 2014.
