Dylan's Story

A skateboard accident at 15 left Dylan Child with a spinal cord injury and months in hospital coming to terms with life in a wheelchair. Sporting Wheelies and Disabled Association's hospital program introduced Dylan to wheelchair basketball and enabled him to meet other players and coaches to inspire and mentor him. He has since forged an exciting career in his new sport, competing at national and international level as a junior player and playing in the state men's wheelchair basketball team. His goal is to compete at the Paralympics as a member of the Australian Rollers wheelchair basketball team. He is also studying to be a sports counsellor and is passionate about inspiring young people with disabilities to be fit and active. "Sport makes you forget everything - you just think about the game or the race. It allows you to show what you can do, not what you're limited to."
